INVOCATION.

Sing to me, O spicy pine!
Laurel dell, and forest vine!

Balmy air, and dimpled pool,
Water-fall and grotto cool!

Woodland elf, and forest sprite,
Crystal pool, and lily white!

Starry sky, and flowery dell,
Breezy wind and fleety shell!

Humming bees, and honey-blows,
Sing and lull me to repose!

Sing! and let your accents fill
All the brazen pipes of ill.

Sing! and let your anthems drown
All the discords of the town.

I am surfeited with din,
Clarion wrong, and trumpet sin,

Chords misstruck, and keys misused,
And the melodies abused.

Sing! ye minstrels of the sod,
Orchestrals of mighty God!

Sing! I am a lover still
Of the flageoletting rill;

Of the incense flowers and trees,
And the undulative breeze;

Of the insects' drowsy hum,
And the awful thunder drum,

Elemental quavers sweet,
Cadence which are complete—

With your rapture swells and thrills,
And your adoration trills—

Sing! O Infinite Choir! that I
May not dissonantly die.

HORSES.—Some English grooms at Saratoga, last Summer, taught Americans how to take care of a horse.

One of the grooms, who had spent twenty years in the stables of royalty, was asked what he had to say about the American way of taking care of horses.

"Why, sir," said he, "you do not take good care of your horses; you think you do, but you don't."

"Because when a horse comes in wet with perspiration, you let him stand in the stable and dry with the dirt on. In England we take the horse as he comes in from a drive and sprinkle blood-warm water over him, from head to foot. Then we scrape down and blanket him, rubbing his face and legs dry. Thus in an hour he is clean and dry, and ready to take a good feed; while in your way he will stand and sweiter for hours, and finally dry sticky and dirty. Our horses never founder and never take cold. We never use a curry-comb. You scratch your horses too hard. The only care necessary is to have the water not very cold, then bathe them quick and blanket them instantly, while you are rubbing their legs."

A certain man got mad at the editor and stopped his paper. The next week he sold all his corn at four cents below the market price: and then his property was sold for taxes because he did not see the notice; he lost $10 by betting on Mollie McCarty two days after she had lost the race; he was arrested and fined $8 for going hunting on Sunday; and he paid $300 for a lot of forged notes that had been advertised two weeks, and the public cautioned not to negotiate them. He then paid a big Irishman, with a leg like a derrick, to kick him all the way to the newspaper office, when he paid four years' subscription in advance, and made the editor sign and swear to a written agreement to knock him down and rob him if he ordered his paper stopped again.

A Chicago woman advertises in the Marriage Bazaar:

"I want an honorable, honest, gentleman for a husband. No lawyer, or gambler need apply. I will give my future husband, on my marriage day, $10,000 cash, and twice that amount in real estate. I am twenty-two years of age, five feet, four inches high, weigh 140 pounds, a good musician, and well educated. Editor has address."

In many parts of rural England there prevails a curious notion that bread filled with quicksilver and thrown into the water will indicate the spot where a body is lying. The Annual Register for 1767 records a case where a loaf of bread thus filled "suddenly tacked and swam across the river," where the body was found.

"Captain, please give me a light," said a private at camp. "Certainly, my good man; but if we were in the regular army such a liberty would not be allowed." "Is that so?" asked the private, and then he suggested—"but if we were in the regular army you wouldn't be captain, perhaps."

Mrs. Mackey, of Nevada, has become the happy owner of some of the most gorgeous jewelry in the Paris Exposition. She has bought a parure of diamonds and sapphires costing $170,000; likewise a diamond necklace valued at $25,000.

A land agent in Colorado remarked to an enquiring emigrant that all that was needed to make the place a paradise was a comfortable climate, water, and good society. "That is all that is lacking in hell," was the reply.

Brain, dear reader, brain! Where is the man or woman who will encourage or grow the tyranny of clothes? Is one yet born? If you, would that we knew the Euthikon of philosophy, that our wise women might hasten to bow before her and bless her coming. Not till one dress is made simple, healthful and comfortable will it be possible for women to compete with men in the world of work, and we cannot afford to murder the elements of beauty. Where is the genius who will combine what is needed, and give us a dress that will suppress and not imprison us; of which we shall be suggestions of our souls are of our bodies. A dress free from impertinence, that will not thrust itself between us and the women we seek, but take its proper place as a secondary and altogether subordinate fact. I know of nothing more truly representative of the worst aspect of woman's character and condition at the present day than her dress. It is a thing of "shreds and patches," full of pretence and unreality.

It is often composed of the flimsiest materials, it consists of bits, it is fastened with pins, and a woman once taken to pieces, the work of reconstruction is truly formidable; from first to last her dress is without unity, harmony, or completeness. "Why does it take you longer to dress than it does me?" said an impatient husband, whose morning paper lacked its appropriate adjunct—the cup of coffee—waiting the wife's appearance at the breakfast table. "For several very good reasons," said the wife. "In the first place, I have three dozen as many things to put on as you.

I know, for I have counted them. You have ten pieces, I have thirty; yours have buttons, mine with pins; yours might be called self-adjusting, while mine need an endless amount of fixing, and then think of the differences in our hair." Here, surely, is food for thought. How to simplify dress; how to lessen the cost of living, how to make home more enjoyable, and social intercourse more rational and satisfactory are important questions that are pressing upon us for our immediate solution.—Celia Burleigh.

APOPLEXY.—It is the essential nature of all wines and spirits to send an increased amount of blood to the brain. The first effect of taking a glass of wine or stronger form of alcohol, is to send the blood there faster than common, hence the circulation that gives the red face. It increases the activity of the brain, and it works faster, and so does the tongue. But as the blood goes to the brain faster than common, it returns faster, and no special harm results. But suppose a man keeps on drinking, the blood is sent to the brain so fast, and in such large quantities, that in order to make room for it the arteries have to enlarge themselves; they increase their size, and in doing so they press the more yielding flaccid veins which carry the blood out of the brain, and thus diminish their size and their power, the result being that the blood is not only carried to the arteries of the brain faster than is natural or healthful, but it is prevented from leaving it as fast as usual; hence, a double set of causes of death are in operation. Hence, one may drink enough of brandy or other spirits in a few hours, or even minutes, to bring on a fatal attack of apoplexy. This is literally being dead drunk.

FENCES.—Every farmer who has to fence his land knows too well how soon posts set in the earth become rotten, especially in a damp place. All of them will welcome the following process to prevent rottenness, a process as wonderful in its effects as it is simple and almost costless. Take linseed oil, boil it, and mix with charcoal dust until it has the consistency of ordinary paint. Give to the post a single coat before planting them, and no farmer, even living the age of patriarchs of old, will live long enough to see the same posts rotten.—Posts of soft wood thus prepared were removed after remaining seven years in the earth, and were found as sound as when planted. The only precaution to take is to use only well dried posts before covering with the mixture.

If in a hurry, never get behind a couple that are courting. They want to make so much of each other that they wouldn't move quick if they were going to a funeral. Get behind your jolly married folks, who have lots of children at home, if you want to move fast.

More men kill themselves than women. Women prefer jumping into the water, men prefer to blow their brains out.

Aged men cut their throats and aged women take to ropes. More single persons commit suicide than married; more divorced persons than widowers.

While waiting for our breakfast one morning in a cremerie in Paris much frequented by foreigners, my friend Mm. B—said, "I can point you out every American breakfasting here."

I looked around at the people seated at the different tables, and wondered if she were speaking seriously. In these days when fashion reduces costume and coiffure to such uniformity, and when the blood of every civilized race is mixed to a great extent with that of every other, distinguished nationality at sight appeared to me impossible. I asked my friend her secret.

"Oh, it is no secret," she replied smiling. "I don't pretend to tell except when they are taking breakfast.

"They all put salt on thier butter."

"Your acuteness applies only to breakfast, then," I said. "At dinner it would not serve you, I suppose," I said this in a kind of savage way, having the common weakness that makes all people abroad defend their countrymen.

"No," she said; we never put butter on the dinner table"—a fact I had at the moment forgotten.

As a rule the French bread is always sweet and good, and two things contribute, in a great degree, to this—that is, the manner and form of baking.

They never make a thick loaf; no matter what the size or shape, it is always thin, and more than two-thirds crust.

They bake their bread until it is perfectly cooked. The loaves being so thin, the heat strikes through them very soon after they are placed in the oven; hence all the fermentation is stopped, while in the case of large loaves, fermentation continues to go on after the bread has been in the oven for some time, and of course, much of the sweetness is lost. Then, in baking so long, and having so much crust, there is a peculiar sweetness given which can be attained in no other way.

The Workingmen of San Francisco, demand the resignation of Auditor Maynard, City Attorney Burnett, and District Attorney Murphy, and their indictment by the grand jury, because it has been shown that they were receiving money favors from the late Alexander Austin, defaulting Tax Collector, when it was their duty to have prosecuted him and compelled the payment to the city of the money unlawfully held by him; and, because by their criminal neglect more than $250,000 have been lost to the city. And, a very good resolution it is, too! "Out of their own mouths are they condemned."—Sacramento Bee.

A new and very clever kind of swindling has been unearthed in London.—Small tradesmen have had weights made heavier, instead of lighter, than the law allows, one of which—a pound weight, for instance—they put in one scale and cover a quarter or half pound weight amid the tea or sugar. When complaint is made and the police investigate, they find the weights heavier than the standard, and commend the swindler for his generosity.

Though many are familiar with the blackguard, few know its origin. MINING EXPENDITURES.

The following important decision by the Commissioner of the Land Office, we copy from the New York Mining Record:

"Application for patent of Peter Nagle, Chief, Charles Henrizen and John G. Young, upon the 'American Hill Quartz Mine,' the Sacramento Land Office, California. Decision by Commissioner, September 28th, 1878.

SYLLABUS.

1. A mine cannot be relocated after entry.

2. Annual expenditures not required by law after entry and before issue of the patent.

The claim is a consolidation of three original locations; one of 1200 feet, made by American Hill Quartz Company, July 26th, 1856; one of 600 feet, made by Darling & Co., October 12th, 1857; and one of 500 feet, made by Spangler and others, December 17th, 1850. The claim is 2268 22-100 feet long by 200 feet wide on each side of lode, and applicants made entry—that is, paid for land, at Sacramento, January 16, 1878. Publication was made, and notices of application were posted upon each original claim separately. No adverse claim was filed. Area of claim appears to be that allowed by Mining Laws of Sierra Mining District and not in excess of that allowed by laws of the United States.

April 26th, 1878, intervention was made by Clarence Smith, who relocated the Darling & Spangler mines, and by F. W. Clute, who relocated the American Hill mine. Intervenors made oath that there was no labor performed or improvements made upon said claims on January 1st, 1878, when the relocations were made and duly recorded in the Office of the County Recorder of Sierra county. The intervenors have asked that application for a patent be dismissed.

Two questions for decision: 1st. Is a mineral claim subject to relocation after its entry? 2. Does a failure to comply with Section 2324 U. S. Revised Statutes, as to labor and improvements between date of entry and delivery of a patent work a forfeiture of all rights acquired by entry, when such failure is made known to the Commissioner?

A mining claim is not subject to relocation after entry.

Carroll vs Safford, 3 Howard, U. S. Sup. Ct. Rep. 441.

Witherspoon vs Duncan, 4 Wallace, do. 210.

Stark vs Starr, 6 Wallace, do. 402.

Hutching vs Law, 15 Wallace, do. 77.

Section 2324 Revised Statutes, applies to mining claims only for period prior to entry. The section deals only with the possessory title, and it does not interfere with a patent certificate. The provisions subsequent to Section 2324 preclude even assertion of an adverse claim of prior inception after entry: much less can a new claim be initiated.

The Commissioner is of the opinion that a failure to perform labor or make improvements required by Section 2324 between date of entry and delivery of patent does not work a forfeiture of all rights acquired by entry, and demand its cancellation.

The mining laws may be divided into two parts, 1st. That granting, on certain conditions, the right of use and possession. 2d. That providing for purchase and sale of the fee.

Section 2324 provides for the right of possession without purchase. The whole scope of the section is that a mere possessory title is subject to be defeated by a failure to make the specified annual appropriation and of the location of another party.

The mining laws do not require a purchase of a mine from the United States. They give the right of exploration and occupation; the perpetuity of possession—without purchase—depends on a compliance of certain conditions, and the failure of a qualified party to relocate during a period of legal abandonment. The mere failure to make the annual improvement does not conclude a possessory right. A mere resumption of work by a party in default, or by his legal representatives, prior to relocation makes his possession good.

The necessity for annual expenditures continues not for a particular term of years, not for a period equal to that prescribed by the statute of limitations of the State in which the mine is situated, but until the owner of the possession shall become the owner of the property—that is until entry, and this is the time which Congress sought to mark by the words of limitation employed.

By the doctrine laid down in Hutchings vs Law, at date of entry the owner of the possession becomes the absolute equitable owner. The delay in a delivery of his patent does not abridge his rights or increase his duties.

Congress intended that the expression used "until a patent has been issued therefor" was only to mark the date of a change of ownership, which happens at entry. Otherwise Congress would have declared in terms that the annual expenditures could not be suspended upon entry and issue of a patent certificate, but must be continued until actual delivery of patent itself. The language used was simply to emphasize the legislative intent, that said expenditures could be dispensed with for no reason, even when the possession might otherwise be protected by the State statute of limitation, or by local rule or custom, except that of change of ownership, of which the patent certificate is legal evidence until delivery of the patent itself at the convenience of the government.

This conclusion is supported by Section 2325 which declares the conditions upon which property can be purchased and a patent be obtained therefor. The proof as to expenditures (the $500 to be certified by the U. S. Surveyor General,) does not in terms or constructively refer to annual improvements, which are the incidents of a possessory title. Time is not material.

The clause of annual expenditures in Section 2325 refers clearly to those conditions only which are essential to the right of purchase. A man may expend $100,000 on a mine and then do no more for three years, but before he applies for a patent. The mine cannot be relocated because he has not done the work; he has made the required $500 expenditure; the mine cannot be relocated after entry; no proof of moneys kept up the annual expenditure, was a condition of entry. The terms of the Chapter relating to annual expenditures refer solely to the possessory title, which has legally become merged into the right of property, and Congress itself said the Supreme Court in Hutchings vs Law, has no power to dispossess him.

Vested rights cannot be annihilated on doubtful constructions of law, and whatever power Congress may have had to make annual expenditures prior to entry a condition of entry, or annual expenditures after entry a condition of patent, Congress did not do so.

The "terms" of the Chapter, with which compliance must be shown in order to support an entry, are such only as relate to the conditions of purchase, and not those which were merely conditions of possession without purchase.

The application for recognition by Smith and Clute are dismissed, and their attempted relocations declared illegal and void.

Sixty days for appeal.

TO OUR PATRONS.

After a residence of over fourteen years in Alpine county, during which time we have anxiously watched, and prayed for, the "county to come out," we have endeavored to foster and advance its interests, both in our columns and private circles; and to those conversant with mining operations in this county, it must be evident that it has been hard work for us—nearly a generation has come and gone, and yet it is the same old story. That we have on several occasions exposed and denounced wildcats, and, also, the mangement of our mines, many are aware; and we know that our timely warning saved many parties from being fleeced by unscrupulous manipulators. With the utter stagnation of legitimate mining in this county, and the cessation of wood chopping, swarms a batch of wildcats from the County Seat, and among them we recognize some of the villainous critters that prowled around in former days, when assessments were levied when the "Prez" eat a whisky jug was empty, and the Secretary a wife wanted a new dress"—simultaneous and periodical occurrances. We have no cause to complain of the results of our business. We have steadily reaped the harvest, although the bulk was sowed with the misery of others. Our columns have been crowded with legals, and that source has been our main income. We wish it had been otherwise—it would have been better for the county and ourselves. Our outside business advertising has been second to none of the Interior journals, and we are glad to say that some of the parties, whose advertisements are in to day's CHRONICLE, commenced with us, on the 24th day of June, 1860, in the Sacramento Daily News, and have steadily continued with us. It is a satisfaction to know that during our career of eighteen years every advertisement solicited by us, and many unsolicited, have paid the giver. It has been our rule never to ask for one unless we were certain it would pay the advertiser. The decline of Alpine county and its rapid depopulation have decided us to remove, as soon as practicable, to Bodie, Mono county, California, where the ALPINE CHRONICLE will be published semi-weekly. The publication in this county has from its advent to this day held its way against the bitterest opposition, eminating from local and political feelings; of those whose animosity we have had to encounter, but few remain, and they are on the ragged edge. We are pleased to say that while the gloomy outlook has a chilling effect upon the ragged edgers, that our best and steadfast friends—the farmers, will find cash sales for their produce at Bodie, and the broached and popular idea of annexing the Carson Valley portion of Alpine county to Mono county may be accomplished at the next Legislative session, and thus relieve them of continued heavy taxation. We have not lost faith in the mines of Alpine; we believe that with proper management they will prove as rich as those of the Comstock; but it will not pay us to wait for coming events in this county. We shall go to a point where we can advance the interests of Mono county, our advertisers, friends and ourselves.

The Greenback State Convention of Rhode Island divided into two.

Cincinnati Weekly Star.—Under "New To-Day" will be found the advertisement of the Cincinnati Weekly Star, which is published at one dollar per year. This is one of the best family papers issued, and we commend it to the public. Its daily is among the best that comes to our office.

Counterfeit five dollar pieces are extensively circulated in Napa county. It is supposed they came from Lake county. They present a fine appearance, 1878 coinage, the shell being gold.

The estimate from Ohio show the election of 14 Democrats and 7 Republicans to Congress.

Collett, publisher of the Placer Herald, was in 1859, of a California party, acquitted.

NEW TO-DAY.

THE CINCINNATI $1 WEEKLY STAR

The largest and best DOLLAR WEEKLY PAPER printed in the country.

It is the paper that meets the wants of the farmer and the fireside more fully than any other, as will be seen by a careful examination of the following facts, and a comparison of the paper with any other of the city weeklies:

The STAR is handsomely printed on pure white paper from clear new type, and is really read, even by a poor light. Its clear and open print is a joy to all its readers.

The STAR is free from political bias, and gives all the news, without favor to either party, to enable its readers to form a correct judgment on whatever is passing, and it discusses questions without prejudice, but always in the interest of the people.

It is in no sense sectarian, or conducted in its news or opinions, and does not insult the intelligence of its readers by attempting to make a FIRST-CLASS NEWSPAPER, putting the money which such things would cost to the benefit of humanity, leaving the paper, and leaving the chromo business in the hands of picture dealers, where it properly belongs.

We, however, fully appreciate the generous way in which our agents, and the public generally, have seen fit to reward them liberally, as will be seen by reference to our "LIST OF PREMIUMS," which is sent on application. Agents' outfit free of charge. Get up a good club for the STAR.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS.—The following are the proceedings of the District Court, Hon. Theron Reed, Judge, presiding:

E. B. Smith, vs. Advance S. M. Co.—N. D. Arnot, Jr.—S. W. Griffith—judgment for plaintiff.

F. D. Graham, vs. Thos. Parsons.—S. W. Griffith—Wells & Stewart—judgment for plaintiff.

Asher Thompson, vs. J. D. Scott, Sheriff.—Wells & Stewart—S. W. Griffith—judgment for defendant.

The People of the State of California, vs. Geo. D. Freyer, John P. Elliot & others. Dist. Att'y, S. W. Griffith and D. W. Virgin—Wells and Stewart.—Continued for the Term.

R. M. & A. C. Folger, vs. County of Alpine. N. D. Arnot, Jr., District Attorney and D. W. Virgin.—Continued for the Term.

GALLANTRY.—On Wednesday last, at Sheriff's sale, about ten cords of stove and four foot wood were sold to a lady for eight dollars eighty cents a cord. The sterner sex gallantly refrained bidding against the buyer. This is the second instance in this town where the men have refused to bid against the fair sex. At the former sale two parcels, valued at $30 and $35 respectively, sold for $2 50 and $5. To use the expressive words of the disgusted official, "such bidding is d——n rough on the creditors." So it was; but who cares?

"TAHOLINTA."—We are in receipt of your well-written and vigorous communication. Had the subject matter been brushed two years since, the enterprise might have been accomplished, and it may be in the near future, but the stagnation prevailing precludes its success. At a future day we will give place to it in our columns.

DECEASED.—We regret to announce the death of John N. Barber, at San Francisco, on the 7th instant, after an illness of one week of typhoid fever. Mr. Barber was a pioneer of Alpine county, and served two terms, and part of a third as County Clerk. He was much respected.

PERSONAL.—This morning Judge Reed left for Bridgeport to hold District Court for Mono county. N. D. Arnot, Jr. departs for San Francisco on business. Within two weeks, accompanied by our Junior, he will return.—R. H. Ford returned from Ione this afternoon.

SNOW.—On Monday last snow fell to the depth of three inches on our streets and one foot on the summits.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S

SELECT LIST OF

LOCAL NEWSPAPERS

Many persons suppose this list to be composed of CHEAP, low-priced newspapers. The fact is quite otherwise. The Catalogue states exactly what the papers are. When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the best paper in the place. When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. When printed in roman letters it is neither the best nor the only paper, but is usually a very good one, notwithstanding. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper. IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST. IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST. At the foot of the Catalogue for each State the important towns which are not covered by the list are enumerated. IT IS AN HONEST LIST. The rates charged for advertising are barely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for one inch four weeks in the entire list is $635. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $3,136 35. The list includes 970 newspapers, of which 163 are issued DAILY and 807 WEEKLY. They are located in 825 different cities and towns, of which 22 are State Capitals, 328 places of over 5,000 population, and 444 County seats. LISTS SENT ON APPLICATION. Address GEO. P. The White

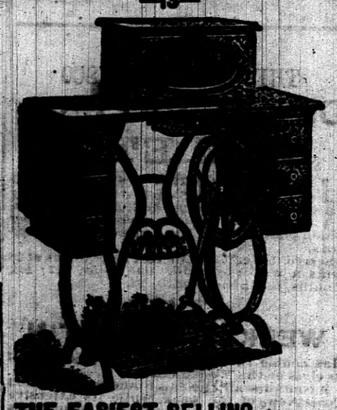
IS



THE EASIEST SELLING, THE BEST SATISFYING

Sewing Machine

Its introduction and World-renowned reputation was the death-blow to high-priced machines.

THERE ARE NO SECOND-HAND WHITE MACHINES IN THE MARKET.

This is a very important matter, as it is a well-known and undisputed fact that many of the so-called first-class machines which are offered so cheap now-a-days are those that have been repossessed (that is, taken back from customers after sale) and rebuilt and put upon the market as new.

THE WHITE IS THE PEER OF ANY SEWING MACHINE NOW UPON THE MARKET.

IT IS MUCH LIGHTER THAN THE FAMILY MACHINES OF THE SINGER, HOWE AND WEED MAKE.

IT COSTS MORE TO MANUFACTURE THAN EITHER OF THE AFORESAID MACHINES.

ITS CONSTRUCTION IS SIMPLE, POSITIVE AND DURABLE.

ITS WORKMANSHIP IS UNSURPASSED.

Do not Buy any other before trying the WHITE.
